

A Practical Presentation on Privilege

A Husch Blackwell Sanders Event and Cocktail Reception

Within corporations, preserving the broadest attorney-client and work-product privilege when issues with legal implications arise requires careful planning by both in-house counsel and management. How and when in-house counsel interface with management can be critical to establishing privilege and avoiding the disclosure of the results of subsequent investigations and corporate discussions.

In this seminar, attorneys Bill Curtis & Mike Wetmore will cover the following topics:

- Common misperceptions about privilege
- The tests that courts use to evaluate whether privileges have been properly invoked
- Concrete examples of what to do to maximize the applicability of privilege
- Steps to avoid waiving privilege, especially in the age of electronic communication

Date & Time

Wednesday, June 16, 2010

3-3:30 p.m. - Registration

3:30-5:30 p.m. - Program

5:30 p.m. - Cocktail Reception

Add to my calendar

Location

Husch Blackwell Sanders LLP

190 Carondelet Plaza

Suite 600

St. Louis, MO 63105

Click for directions

Who Should Attend

- In-House Counsel
- CEOs
- CFOs
- Managers
- Directors

Credit Information

Missouri: 2.4 CLE hours, including 2.4 ethics hours

Illinois: 2.0 CLE hours, including 2.0 ethics hours

RSVP

This program is complimentary; however, registration is required.

RSVP by Thursday, June 10, 2010, to stephanie.dorssom@huschblackwell.com or 314.345.6646. Seating is limited.

Our Business Litigation Practice Group has more than 200 attorneys who are dedicated to business and commercial litigation.

Husch Blackwell Sanders LLP is a litigation and business services law firm with approximately 625 attorneys in offices in 13 cities.