Editor's Note: The below list of the top U.S. Postal Service suppliers in Fiscal Year 2011 was compiled based on data received in response to a Freedom of Information Act request. Entries for companies believed to be affiliated or have common ownership were consolidated under the name of the company with the highest individual ranking. We consolidated more entries this year than in past years, which could account for significant ranking changes for some contractors. City/state designations are based on the information in USPS payment records, which may not be the contractor's primary location. Contractor ranking for FY 2010 is also shown. The data covers payments made by the Postal Service in fiscal year 2011 (October 1, 2010 - September 30, 2011). The information on this list has not been audited and thus may not be fully accurate. Please contact the editor if you have any questions or know of any discrepancies. A separate alphabetical listing appears on page 3 for ease of finding a particular contractor.

Shown are the top 150 suppliers to the U.S. Postal Service based on payments received in fiscal year 2011.

David Hendel, chair of the firm's Postal Service Contracting practice, commenced his legal practice in 1982 as an Honors Attorney in the Office of Contracts and Property Law at U.S. Postal Service Headquarters. For six years, he advised postal officials on procurement matters, litigated contract claims, and handled agency protests. He received a special commendation for meritorious service from the agency's top procurement official.

After entering private practice and representing clients in "standard" federal agency procurements, he realized how vastly those rules differed from the Postal Service's procurement environment. To help contractors succeed within this special environment, he developed five popular training courses on postal contracting. More than 1,000 contractors have attended these seminars. Since 2001, he has annually compiled and published a list of the Postal Service's top suppliers. Recognized as an authority on postal contracting, he is highly sought-after by the media and industry trade journals on postal procurement topics.

David has assisted hundreds of postal suppliers on a wide variety of contract-related matters. In addition, he regularly litigates claims and other matters before the U.S. Court of Federal Claims, the Postal Service Board of Contract Appeals, and various U.S. District Courts. With the government intensifying its efforts to find fraud under federal contracts, David frequently assists contractors facing False Claims Act investigations and litigation.

About Husch Blackwell

Husch Blackwell LLP is a full-service litigation and business law firm with 600 attorneys in locations across the United States and in London, serving clients with domestic, international, and multinational operations. We focus on providing sophisticated legal services at a compelling value that help manage risk, overcome hurdles and create meaningful advantages for our clients.

We represent national and global leaders in major industries that include agribusiness, energy, financial services, healthcare, manufacturing, chemicals and telecommunications. Our attorneys are recognized by leading professional and industry organizations for their knowledge and expertise across a broad range of legal services.

Our Government Contracts practice, based in our Washington, D.C., office, represents domestic and international clients involved in all phases of government contracting, including bid protests, contract administration, change orders, audits, claims and disputes, and compliance programs. A special focus of this practice is providing advice to Postal Service contractors.
